

Assignment - 13.

What about points of parity?

Points of parity are the basic features or benefits that a brand must have to complete in a market

- These are not special advantages
- They are the minimum requirements

Why points are parity important?

- TO be accepted in a product category
- TO compete with other brands
- TO remove customer doubts
- TO Avoid competitive disadvantages

Types of Points of parity:

i) Category points of parity:

Features required to be seen as part of product category

ii) Competitive points of parity:

Features that help a brand match competitors.